PATMAN BONUS AIDS DECIDE TO FACE F.D.R. VETO

Act After White House Definitely Announces Its Plans

STATEMENT MADE BY ADMINISTRATION

President Not Interested Politically In Bonus, Is Claim

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, May 16.—Expressing confidence that they had picked up some votes, senate supporters of the Patman bonus bill decided today to let it go to the white house for President Roosevelt's veto.

They reached this decision shortly after the white house had definitely made known that a veto would be forthcoming as soon as the legislation arrived.

Will Withdraw Motion

Senator Thomas (D., Okla.) said he would withdraw his motion to reconsider the vote by which the bill was passed, which has kept it up in the senate for more than a week, with an understanding that the crucial vote to override the President's veto will not come until next week.

The administration emphasized that it was the earnest hope of the President that congress will support the veto.

This notice was given through his secretary, Stephen Early, in response to published statements that some administration leaders might like to see the veto overridden for political purposes.

"I will say as definitely as I can," said Early, "that the President is not interested in the bonus because of political reasons or political expediency. He will veto the bill passed by congress."

Hopes for Congress Support

In his message he will present as forceful an argument as he has and it is his earnest hope that congress will support the veto," Early added.

As to the stand in congress for or against the veto, the white house said it knew what was what was published in the newspapers. Latest published reports were said to indicate the veto would be upheld in the senate.

The white house move obviously was undertaken to check any loss of administrative strength through the published reports that some partisans thought it might be well to have the bonus enacted over the veto and gotten out of the way a little.

Spanish Aviator Off For Mexico

SEVILLE, Spain, May 16.—Juan Francisco Ponce, 21-year-old Spaniard, took off today for Villa de Guzman, Pto. de Oro, on the first leg of a flight to Mexico, D. F., and reunion with his sweetheart.

His powerful plane departed from the airfield at 5:30 a. m. O. C. 12:30 p. m. Eastern Standard Time, and the cheers of several hundred spectators.

Ponce is expected to complete the first leg, a distance of approximately 1,200 miles, in about eight hours. From Villa de Guzman he plans to fly to Bathurst, Gambia, and there prepare for his hop across the Atlantic to Natal, Brazil.

The young flier said the ocean hop of 1,900 miles, on which he expected to encounter his greatest difficulties, probably would take him 12 hours.

Young men who have been in camp, and who possess an honorable discharge are permitted to file a new application for enrollment. However, honorable discharge certificates must be presented when application for new enrollment is made.

SENATOR CLARK HITS RICHBERG IN NRA TANGLE

Missourian Calls Roosevelt's Aid a "Would-Be Mussolini"

PLANS TO MAKE SENATE SPEECH

Richberg, meanwhile, Asks For Alterations In Clark NRA Bill

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, May 16.—The struggle over the future of NRA took on new intensity today, with Senator Clark (D., Mo.) assailing Donald R. Richberg as a would-be "Mussolini" and Richberg doing his utmost to combat Clark's ideas on Blue Eagle extension.

Angered by criticism of his measure to extend the agency only ten months more, Clark said he would make a speech in the senate on "Donald R. Richberg and his ambition to be a Mussolini in the United States."

Appeals to House

Richberg, chairman of NRA's governing board, meanwhile appealed to house leaders to make major alterations in the Clark plan, which the senate has approved.

In a conference with Democratic members of the house ways and means committee last night, he argued that the new NRA legislation should apply to business "substantially affecting interstate commerce." The bill which the senate passed overwhelmingly would place all interstate business outside the code structure.

The house members tentatively turned down Richberg's request on this point, contending such a provision as he suggested would amount to the same thing as the present law. But they gave support to his contention that NRA should be continued two years instead of ten months.

Ripping into Richberg for his fight against the senate measure, Clark held that a talk with the NRA chief would be to his staff "the most brazen exhibition of impudence on the part of a bureaucrat" he had ever seen. Richberg had referred to the ten-month extension as "complete folly."

This controversy emphasized the possibility of a bitter dispute between the house and senate over NRA.

See Roosevelt Backing

Speaker Byrnes and other leaders have predicted the house will abide by President Roosevelt's request for a two-year extension. One Democratic representative said privately today he had been informed that a poll of the senate showed 56 of its members would vote to extend the Blue Eagle's life considerably more than ten months rather than June 16.

But Senator King (D., Utah), a critic of the recovery administration, has threatened that the bill will be delayed "indefinitely" if the house tries to change it or sends it back "with a Richberg tag."

There was some speculation in the capital as to the possible effect on congress of the stand taken yesterday by former President Hoover. In an interview at Palo Alto, Calif., he said the "one right answer" to the NRA problem was complete abolition of the agency. Some Democratic leaders interpreted his words as a move to build up a 1935 campaign issue. Republicans who commented limited their remarks to NRA and said nothing about the former president.

3 MORE FINED FOR PURCHASES

City's Revenue In Recent Liquor Raid Placed At $1,052.10

Three additional persons besides the seven arrested Tuesday night by city police in a series of snappy liquor raids about the city, appeared in Mayor Norman Phillips court Wednesday and each was fined $100 and costs on pleas of guilty to selling liquor without a license.

Those fined last night included: Mrs. Albert Fisher, West Wilson st., Mary Borrelli, West 2nd st., and Jabez Kopp, 274 North Howard st. They paid their fines and were released.

The liquor roundup Tuesday night by police and a group of firemen, headed by Police Chief Ralph N. Stoffer resulted in the arrest of 10 liquor violators in all and brought into the city treasury the sum of $1,052.10. All the money is retained by the city, Chief Stoffer explained today. The state gets no part of it as in the case where liquor transporters are caught passing through the city.

STATE RULES ON SALE EXCHANGES

No Additional Tax Necessary, Unless Value Is Greater

LISBON, May 16.—Buyers of merchandise who pay a sales tax on such chattels, then exchange such goods for other items, need not pay a sales tax on the goods obtained in exchange, except the tax on an additional value. Clerk of Courts T. Vaughn Yates has been informed by the Tax Commission of Ohio.

This order overrules opinions promulgated by Columbiana sales tax inspectors, which has to do with the sale of automobiles.

It has been held by the tax commission that when an item has been exchanged for one of lesser value, the excess sales tax shall be refunded.

When the purchaser of an automobile is not satisfied with the motor unit purchased, and returns it to a dealer for another, selling at the same price, no additional sales tax is to be paid, the tax commission says.

Tax investigators in this county have held that a sales tax should be collected on the motor unit taken in exchange for the unit as a replacement. The tax commission holds, however, that "if no consideration passes, other than the defective articles, then no tax should be collected." This applies to all tangible personal property, the commission has held.

A further holding of the tax commission, according to an opinion given Clerk of Courts Yates, is that no law exists whereby the clerk of courts should retain the title of a motor vehicle purchased in another state.

Other members of the Salem state highway patrol at present are Patrolmen F. S. VanAllen and G. W. Fielding.

WHEAT PROGRAM UP TO FARMERS

Nation-Wide Referendum May 25 To Decide Contract Fate

LISBON, May 16.—Whether there will be an AAA wheat contract next year is in the hands of farmers who grow wheat.

They will decide, in a nation-wide referendum, May 25, whether they favor continuing wheat production adjustment measure under the Agricultural Adjustment Act after 1935.

The present contract expires at the close of this crop year.

Before farmers will be asked to vote, an outline of the new proposals for wheat adjustment will be presented by the adjustment administration through the county agricultural agent's office.

Floyd Lower, county agent, says the new proposals have the same fundamental features and principles of the first wheat program, although there are additional inducements for shifting land in the drought and dust-storm area from wheat production to grass.

Like the 1933-35 wheat production control program, the plans now being discussed by AAA officials call for voluntary participation by farmers. The program, if approved and accepted by growers, would affect the crop years 1936, 1937, 1938 and 1939.

Contract signers would receive benefit payments for making the adjustments.

STATE SENATE HAS FIELD DAY; O. K.'S 64 BILLS

Highway Refunder Proposal Slips Through With Little Debate

CIGARET TAX OF 2 CENTS REENACTED

Legislators Also Ballot For Increase In Salaries

COLUMBUS, O., May 16.—Amid a comedy of errors, the Ohio senate today passed 61 bills and then adjourned until noon when it will consider a half a dozen more preparatory recessing for a week.

Apparently half of the senators paid little attention to the bills. Bills which heretofore have caused no end of debate were adopted without the authors or sponsors having to speak.

Only Few Protests

As soon as the titles of most of the proposed acts were read by the clerk, a shout of "agreed" went up. On only a few occasions did the protests of senators interested in learning the contents of the measures prevail.

The senate spent 12 hours in actual session yesterday and early today in clearing the decks of a host of bills most of which were described as of the "cat and dog variety." The senate quit at 4:35 a. m. after passing 64 bills in the 12-hour period without killing a single measure. Most of the measures got by without a negative vote.

Two measures which heretofore have caused untold debate—the bill to increase the number of state highway bonds—slipped through with only a minimum number of votes in opposition.

The refunding proposal would permit county commissioners to refund outstanding highway bonds beginning Jan. 1, 1935, with monies coming to the county from its share of the motor vehicles license tag fees. It now goes to the house.

Up To Commissioners

The refunding of these bonds is entirely within the discretion of the county commissioners. The funds would be available, if the bill becomes a law, since a present act which allows counties to divert this money for county operating expenses and poor relief expires on Dec. 31. The counties have available 47 per cent of all the motor vehicle taxes collected, approximately $18,000,000 a year, and they would be permitted to use 52 per cent of this amount for the refunding of the bonds.

It is estimated that if the commissioners take advantage of the refunding proposal that more than $30,000,000 in outstanding bonds might be refunded. Twenty-one senators voted for and three against.

Those voting against the bill were Senators Maurice W. Lipscher (Mahoning) and Edward N. Waldvogel (Hamilton), both Democrats, and John Lloyd (Scioto).

It is considered extremely doubtful that the house will agree on all of the senate amendments.

Increasing of the state highway patrol from 60 to 120 men was accomplished without a dissenting vote. The act would increase the number of officers on the highway, but would actually reduce the number of office help.

Re-enactment of the cigarette tax of two cents on a package of twenty, likewise was accomplished without any opposition. The act proposes to extend the tax for an additional year, but the senate tax committee thought the ten

FOUNDATION PLAN AND PAROCHIAL AID FACE NEW BATTLES

PERMANENT TAX PLAN PROPOSED

House Approves Move To Continue 1-Cent Liquid Fuel Levy

(By Associated Press) COLUMBUS, O., May 16.—Ohio's 1-cent liquid fuel tax would be re-enacted as a permanent levy under a $40,000,000 road assessment refund bill approved by the house, 58 to 22 today.

The measure would provide for cancellation and for refunding over a period of ten years, of all assessments for state highways made before July 25, 1929. No assessments have been made since that time.

To finance the refunds, the measure, which now goes to the senate, provides for re-enactment of the liquid fuel tax after Dec. 31, when the present tax expires.

The refund is different from the Armbruster road refunding bill passed in the senate last night. That measure provides for the highway department to take over assessment bonds which have not yet been paid.

Under the refund measure, 25 per cent of the revenue from the liquid fuel tax, or about $2,500,000 a year, would be used to make the assessment refunds; 15 per cent or $1,500,000 would go to the highway department for maintenance and repair; 18 per cent or $1,800,000 to each of municipalities on the basis of motor vehicle registration and to counties in equal amounts of about $29,000 to $30,000 each; and 22 1/2 per cent of townships in equal amounts of $1,300 to $1,400 each.

Although approved by the house, the foundation measure was drastically amended in the senate and strong opposition is expected to forestall concurrence.

Promise of a stiff fight also is seen when proponents and opponents of the parochial-denomination school issue clash. For several years it has been a legislative bugaboo.

These issues are the most important facing the two houses, but a flood of minor legislation is piled up behind them.

There is little likelihood that all of it will be cleared away before midnight, when adjournment is effective under a resolution adopted by both houses two weeks ago.

May "Cover" Clock

Consequently, the legislators probably will "cover" the clock and remain on the job until a majority of the work is finished, about Saturday. Since the adjournment is set for next Thursday.

With 17 votes required, the senate adopted 17 to 15 the bill to give parochial schools $3,000,000 and denominational colleges $2,000,000. It is sponsored by Sen. John A. Davis (D., Cuyahoga).

For elementary school pupils the parochial schools would receive $17 each and $25 for high school pupils. An attempt to eliminate the $50 a year aid for each college student was defeated.

Sen. John A. Lloyd cast the only dissenting vote against the foundation bill, which 27 senators voted for. Four senators were in their seats but did not vote.

Costing a minimum of $8,000,000 more than is now available for schools, the foundation plan would provide $45 for elementary school pupils and $67.50 for high school pupils.

Neither measure contains provisions for raising funds or specifying revenue sources to carry out the programs.

Wanted Referendum

Senator Lloyd's opposition was based on the contention that school districts should have the right of referendum on any plan of consolidation for reorganization of small districts.

As amended, the bill would provide for extensive consolidations and reorganizations, which Senator

SENTENCED TO DEATH

The senate's decision to limit recovery act extension to nine months is virtually a sentence of death. Unless the house of representatives can force the senate to agree on a longer extension, the recovery act, symbol of the Roosevelt administration's program of control over business, will have come to be a factor before the end of the current year.

Industries which would continue to be affected legally by the revised recovery act the senate favors would not bother to revise their codes for so short a period. Thus, instead of being a means of marking time until a longer extension of the act could be accomplished, the nine month continuance would be a direct blow at the code structures which are the act's principal product.

This possible effect may be averted by Democratic leaders in the house. They may possess enough power to make the senate change its mind. That is doubtful, in view of the senate's approach to the question of continuing the recovery act. Apparently, the western and southern Democrats who have been its hardest critics are in the driver's seat. They seem determined to be rid of the blue eagle and all the paraphernalia that went with it.

Their determination fails to cause much excitement, strangely enough when one remembers how important the recovery act has seemed during its existence as the principal instrument for restoring order in a restless country. Absence of excitement, however, is merely proof that the recovery act has fewer friends than it would need to have in order to be effective. In other words, the act has been dying slowly for many months. The question before congress is: Shall we attempt to revive it or let it go on dying? The senate's decision, though contrary to the administration's wish and to the expectations of a large portion of the citizenry, is destined to be the popular decision sooner or later.

POPULARITY CONTEST

Postmaster General Farley has won the first round of the popularity contest between himself and Sen. Huey Long. The senate voted Tuesday 62 to 20 to reject the senator's resolution for an investigation of Mr. Farley.

The vote was strictly partisan. Sen. Long was the only Democrat who favored the resolution. Nineteen Republicans and one Progressive stood with him, until at the last minute he changed his vote for a technical reason in connection with reconsideration of the measure.

On his own merit, Postmaster General Farley would not win many voting contests in which partisanship did not favor him. He is one of the most pleasant aspects of the Roosevelt administration, not because he is a distinctive type but simply because he is typical of that side of the new deal which is a constant reminder that political parties are primarily interested in jobs and money.

Sen. Long's enmity for Mr. Farley can be traced to purely material differences. One machine politician is fighting another machine politician. The postmaster general won the decision in the senate because he represented the national machine. Democrats are not interested in investigating his conduct as postmaster general because the invitation to do so has been issued by a disgruntled politician. Even were the charges better founded than Sen. Long's charges seem to be, they would not cause the senate to take action.

THE STARS SAY

For Friday, May 17

A day of excellent opportunities for stabilizing the fortunes and possessions, as well as enhancing personal popularity and attaining bold ambitions is forecast from the hour and mutual planetary aspects. It is a time for forging ahead in this direction, with those in power, especially in "big business," combines or secret societies ready to give generous co-operation to solid propositions.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of great opportunity for reaching high goals. But ah! impulsive and rash approach to those whose assistance is desired and be particularly discreet in personal relations.

A child born on this day may be ambitious, efficient and sagacious in building for itself power and possessions. It may be disposed to be too ardent and indiscreet in its private affiliations.

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, May 16—An army of 10,000 fast-talking, well-barbered and well-dressed men live in an area bounded on the north by Columbus Circle and south by Herald Square—and live rather hand-somely, considering they live entirely by their wits. The New Yorker "profiled" a gimme gink recently. They are the most expert of the gleaners along the way that is white. They have sharp eyes for the advantage that would mean nothing to the average fellow, but to them means a free meal, a free seat in the theatre, a free shave and shine or even a free cigarette.

Rarely do they run foul of the police, because their chiseling is so insignificantly petty they are immediately dismissed in court. They will wander out with a better hat and coat but leave something shabby behind as proof that it has all been a mistake. In case!

They will walk out without paying manicure girls and barbers because they know they will not be chased. Thus do their minds work in small grooves. They feel a great flush of victory in their pinch-penny strokes. Their clubs are the automats and their offices any corner in the 40's.

He strolled across the vast azure ceiling waiting room of Grand Central with his long hair, thin face, ill fitting clothes, old fashioned traveling bag in his hand—a first rate picture of Edgar Allen Poe come to life. He was in reality Professor Picard of the untrepid stratosphere flights.

When I stepped into a busy executive's office in 53d street today he was talking on the telephone and his expression was clouding. Finally he said: "Just a moment. Something has come up. I'll call you back." Then he explained that was his way of getting rid of phone pests. He never calls back.

Two outstanding gestures of naive historians should not neglect in their glossary of what has been otherwise a shamefully immodest era: Lindbergh stepping from his plane in Paris with "I am Charles Lindbergh," and the father of the Dionne quintuplets writing a newspaper to inquire the price of a birth announcement.

Dave and his Blue Room on 7th avenue are syn-bolical of the uncertainties of Broadway catering. Dave's original place was modestly comfortable and prospered feeding a strictly Broadway clientele. So prosperous indeed that after several years he decided on a grandiose splurge, closing for a few weeks to change the plain facade into a mirror, chromium dazzle. The interior became just as glossy, accentuated by sprays of indirect lights. But in the short interval of refurbishing, Broadway forgot. In no time the new place dwindled into bankruptcy. It hangs on and Dave is hopeful but will never close for repairs again.

And there is dormancy, too, in an entirely different stratum. Sutton Place is marking time in its march to the Mayfair heights. It bloomed suddenly in slum squalor like a lily in the bog. Several magnificent apartments went up and long ago brick residences were done over in black with brightly colored doors, brass knockers, Venetian blinds and featuring white picket fences. Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Anne Morgan, Lawrence Tibbett, Miriam Hopkins and other headline names moved in—and a mild boom was on. But somehow things came to a stop. Sutton Place is still there and quite swank, but also quite unoccupied.

Care of Summer Ills

DURING THE hot months various discomforts and ailments are sure to arise. For example, summer diarrhea is frequently encountered in young children. Nursing infants, as well as children between the ages of two and five years are particularly susceptible to this complaint.

It is a common belief that summer diarrhea can be prevented. But sometimes, despite every precaution the child suffers from the disorder. Usually it can be traced to some irregularity in the diet or from a change in the milk supply.

In some instances it may result from a localized infection of some sort. It may come from enlarged and diseased tonsils and adenoids or an infection of the ears, nose or throat. The germs are carried to the intestine where they set up marked irritation and inflammation. Diarrhea may occur as a complication of some constitutional disorder.

Runs High Fever

Because of the absorption of toxins or poisons from the intestinal tract, the child runs a high fever and appears extremely ill. In every young child diarrhea is a serious ailment and should never be neglected. Inadequate care of the young infant with this disorder may result in grave complications.

It is always best to consult a physician. He will advise you and outline the necessary treatment. As a rule, solid foods should be avoided. In severe cases of summer diarrhea where there has been considerable loss of fluid it may be necessary to replace this fluid by the injection of sterile water. Of course, this should only be resorted to when advised by the physician. Sometimes forced feeding may be necessary to maintain the strength and vitality of the young sufferer.

Increase Food Slowly

As soon as the diarrhea has disappeared and the temperature is normal it is advisable slowly to increase the amount of food. Skimmed milk, junket, small quantities of bread, egg and jelly are first given. This is followed pretty soon by a return to the normal diet. Do not assume that every case of diarrhea is "summer diarrhea." Diarrhea may be the only sign of some more serious disorder. For example, within recent years a large number of cases of amoebic dysentery have been reported in this country. This disease was formerly believed to occur only in tropical countries. It usually develops during the hot weather. It is caused by a parasite and affects children as well as adults.

In every case of "summer complaint" talk with your doctor. He will direct you exactly what to do.

Honor Dead, Serve Living, Is Message Of Legion's Poppy

"Honor the dead and serve the living," is the message which the memorial poppies will bring to the people of Salem on Poppy Day, May 25. Ross Helman, commander of Chas. H. Carey post of the American Legion, in a statement today urged all veterans to give fullest support to the Poppy day observance.

"Men who served in France have an indelible picture of the poppies in their minds, closely associated with the memory of their comrades whom they left overseas," he said. "Soon after the American Legion was organized the poppy was adopted as its memorial flower and the custom adopted of wearing the flower on the Saturday before Memorial day in tribute to the war dead."

"The distribution of the poppies on Poppy day was placed by the Legion in the hands of those loyal, patriotic women who compose the American Legion auxiliary. Through their volunteer efforts they recall for all America the inspiring services of the men who died in the poppy-flecked fields of France and Belgium. They also raise funds for the Legion and Auxiliary welfare work among those who were not called upon to die, but to sacrifice strength and health in the nation's defense, the disabled veterans, and for the families of the dead and disabled."

"The message of the poppy is 'Honor the dead and serve the living,' for each wearer of the memorial flower makes some contribution to aid the war's living victims. Every Legionnaire, of course, every veteran and every patriotic citizen should have a poppy in his button hole on Saturday, May 25."

Many Report Marvelous Results From Switching To New Cellophane Wrapped Honey-Krushed Bread

Several customers who have eaten the new Honey Krushed Wheat Bread for the last week, report that constipation has been greatly relieved and in many cases eliminated.

The pleasing combination of crushed whole wheat kernels and pure honey, blended by a secret process, controlled exclusively in Alliance, Ohio, by Lembright's Bakery gives your diet the necessary roughage thereby eliminating dosing with drugs and purges.

Honey Krushed Wheat Bread regulates and nourishes the internal glands which control elimination. This process of nature clears the intestines and gives new strength and energy. Furthermore, the perfect blending of purehoney, the extra coating of crushed wheat on the outer crust, gives delicious appetizing flavor.

Baked twice daily and rushed fresh from the ovens, your family will love this rich, wheaty whole-some bread. And if any member has been troubled by the most common of all American ailments—constipation—relief and cure will be obtained with Honey Krushed Wheat Bread.

MAKE THIS TEN-DAY TEST

Hosts of morbid, tired and discouraged men and women are amazed at this new easy way to regulate the bowels. Give it a ten-day trial. After the third or fourth day you will begin to feel more peppy, your bowels will begin to move regularly and you will enjoy life once more.

Because Honey Krushed Wheat Bread gets right down to the cause of constipation and supplies the needed relief in a natural way. First, it's rich, nutty flavor makes it doubly appetizing and second, the crushed whole wheat kernels and pure honey sweetening are easily assimilated. They nourish the digestive glands. They produce the juices that alone enable you to digest the fats and starches. These normally keep you healthy, but if allowed to clog and retard the natural process of elimination, stoppage occurs, headaches and ill-health follow. Constipation is the most prevalent complaint in this country. Honey Krushed Wheat Bread relieves this easily and quickly.

Be sure you get Honey Krushed Wheat Bread. Look for the extra outer coating of crushed wheat on the crust.

There is also a sister who returns home with a husband unexpectedly to add to their troubles.

May Robson as the mother of this family, deprived of her husband in early years, struggles to another firm and beats her father's best salesman. William Gargan plays opposite Miss Blondell as the star salesman for her father. Glenda Farrell appears

CHECK SUMMER GASOLINE CLAIMS AGAINST MILEAGE

Each summer you are asked to decide between the contradictory claims of a dozen gasolines. Without accurate instruments it's difficult for a motorist to compare the various gasoline qualities. But you can test miles-per-gallon. By keeping an accurate record of mileage between purchases, you can measure the miles delivered to you by a gasoline.

On such a test, we bid for your patronage of Sohio X-70, feeling sure that your own test will prove the unsurpassed quality of triple-distilled X-70 not only in mileage, but in all other important qualities.

NEW Triple distilled X-70 CUTS MOTORING COSTS

TECHNICALLY SPEAKING

In recent years improvements in gasoline have made vast contributions to automobile performance, but they have been accompanied, by and large, by sacrifice of gasoline mileage.

Gasoline, as contained in crude oil, has several distinct component parts or zones, each of which has distinct qualities which are necessary and valuable in varying proportions for the best operation of a motor. These component parts, however, are not naturally in proper proportion for most efficient use in an internal combustion engine. In the effort to increase in a motor fuel the proportions of the component parts representing anti-knock, volatility, and acceleration, sacrifice has generally been made of heavier molecules which represent mileage and hill climbing power.

By a new process of fractionation selection this company now withdraws from the gasoline an intermediate part which is re-cracked and made more volatile and then reinserted into the gasoline. This makes it possible also to reinsert into the gasoline a larger part of the heavier molecules representing mileage and power than could otherwise be carried in a gasoline of modern requirements.

• Triple-Distilled to give you Long Mileage Dividends plus a bonus of greater developed-horsepower, swifter acceleration, higher top-speed.

Woman, with Thinking Matter Taken From Her Brain, Astounds Doctors

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE, Associated Press Science Editor.
WASHINGTON, May 16.—A woman whose mind was improved by an operation that removed nearly the entire "thinking" portion of her brain was described to the American Psychiatric association today.

The operation removed the entire right prefrontal lobe and most of the left lobe. These lobes are the gray matter credited with being the seat of reason, logic and intelligence.

That they also strongly affect personality was not so widely believed. The report was made by Spafford Ackley, M. D., associate professor of psychiatry at the University of Louisville School of Medicine. The operation was done two years ago, he said, by Glen Spurling, professor of neuro-surgery at the same school.

Happy After Operation
Medically it has been described today as the personality of the woman. She is an Austro-Hungarian, is married, and was 35 when a tumor necessitated the removal of so much of her brain.

For the first year afterward she was extraordinarily gay and happy, almost childishly so. With the second year came the mature changes now reported. Intelligence tests rate her as well as the average American adult.

But her power of concentration has improved over anything previously shown by her. Her memory of immediate events is good, and for events long past is "remarkable," she reads English much better than before the operation.

She says she can do more work without fatigue. Her medical observers bear out this fact. She goes to sleep at once and rests soundly. Her temper is better. She worries less than formerly. Her religious advisers are delighted with her piety. Her church attendance and evident love of religion, but her husband says she has feelings of superiority.

Several explanations are suggested. One is the fact already observed in animals that the brain has spare parts. When one portion goes wrong, the rest of the gray matter can take over to some extent.

Another explanation is that the very small portion of prefrontal lobe may be functioning better than did the whole thinking mechanism when intact.

The increased concentration may be really lack of ability to be distracted, such as a whole brain possesses.

OPPOSING SHIPS IN GREAT 'WAR'

Most Spectacular Part of Navy Maneuvers Get Under Way

By WALTER B. CAUSSEN, Associated Press Staff Writer.
ABOARD BATTLESHIP PENNSYLVANIA, IN HAWAIIAN WATERS, May 16.—All vessels of the United States navy's "White Fleet" moved seaward from Pearl harbor today, the "Black Fleet" bore south from its base near the Aleutians, and the most spectacular part of the sixteenth annual naval maneuver was under way.

These 133 ships, with their hundreds of fast planes and hordes of auxiliaries, will move and counter-move on a tactical chessboard of 5,000,000 square miles, seeking to checkmate each other and putting to practical test the training and abilities of thousands of officers and men.

The Hawaiian islands—not only those garden spots known as the "Paradise of the Pacific" but the chain of rocks, atolls and outposts extending to midway and almost to the international dateline—will be the scene of these dramatic "games." These are the stepping stones of the Pacific, and along with this 1400 mile line of dots on the map the "White Fleet" patrolled today after having cut short its visit to Pearl Harbor, and Honolulu.

In this strange little frequented area about which many tales of romance and shipwreck tragedy have been written, birdmen, seamen and undersea strategists will play a military game with unusual phases that set it apart from all previous naval maneuvers. The area's naval baptism will be given by a force with the greatest power, mobility and tactical breadth of any the United States ever sent to sea.

SCHOOL BILLS WIN APPROVAL

Senate Vote Favorable, Measures Now Go To House

James Metzbaum (D., Cuyahoga) asserts would result in large savings. Reps. Grover Traxler (D., Wyandot) and R. J. Kiefer (R., Lorain), authors of the bill, expressed doubt as to whether the house would concur in the amendments.

With the assertion "the present governor promises to be the most extravagant we have ever had," Rep. E. R. King (R., Vinton) led a movement which resulted in the $35,000 cut in Davey's budget.

An attempt to double the allotment of $10,220 for the bureau of identification and classification and to compel all agricultural experiment stations to include labor cost in the costs of experiments failed. An appropriation for campus repairs at Bowling Green State college was increased from $16,000 to $20,500.

For maintenance and expansion of the V. F. W. National home for "dow" and "orphans."

Hospital relief, individual relief or ex-service men, their widows and orphans and hospital entertainment.

Service bureau work, including Veterans' bureau liaison.

Military funerals for deceased ex-service men.

Acquisition, improvement and the maintenance of burial plots, and decoration of graves of ex-service men.

Relief Factories Hurting Private Shops, Are Closed
WASHINGTON, May 16.—Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator, today said ten work relief factories in Ohio had been closed down because it seemed to him that "the most undesirable competition with private industry."

At the same time, Hopkins told reporters there was "nothing to the story" that Frank D. Henderson, former Ohio relief administrator, would be named to succeed Charles C. Stillman, federal administrator for Ohio. Stillman is to remain with the relief administration but in what capacity was not definitely determined.

The factories established by the Ohio relief administration before Hopkins took over the handling of federal relief in the state had been making such articles as stockings, stoves and pottery.

Pass Bridge Bill
COLUMBUS, May 16.—The senate today passed the Kalk bill, under which the state would purchase the Sandusky Bay bridge. The measure previously passed the house. After minor amendments are adjusted between the two houses, the bill will go to the governor for his signature. The vote for the bill was 24 to 1.

STATE SENATE HAS FIELD DAY

month period was long enough for the schools which receive the money to clear up outstanding notes pledged against the tax.

A reduction in the price of automobile license tags to purchasers of low-priced, high-powered cars and high-priced vehicles also was voted by the senate without a dissenting vote. Under provisions of the Stacy-Pollock bill as approved by the senate, the price of tags for cars up to 25 horse power will be $7 a year from 25 to 31 horsepower $10 and over 31 horsepower $14. Another provision of the bill would permit automobile owners to get their tags any time between Jan. 1 and April 1. The present law requires that all places be obtained by Jan. 1.

Increase Salaries
With cries of "we need it," and "let's vote" the senate agreed with the house that it was underpaid. As a result, the upper chamber passed the bill by Rep. Joseph Orgin (D., Cuyahoga) to increase the salaries of legislators from $1,000 to $2,000 a year. The pay of the lieutenant governor likewise was increased from $1,500 to $3,500 a year.

Governor Davey is understood to have said he would sign the bill if it came to his desk for approval. It probably will be sent to him some time next week. Only three votes were cast against the bill—by Senators Lloyd, J. G. Lowery (Muskingum), both Republicans, and James M. Matthews, Jr., (D., Clark) twenty-one members voted for it.

The state tax commission was designated as the "staff relief commission" in a bill by Sen. Frank E. Whittemore (R., Summit). The bill gives the tax commission the power to approve or reject bond issues and to provide for the transfer of state money to the federal government and to supervise its expenditure. It now goes to the house.

Bolster License Law
In an effort to prevent gubernatorial veto, the senate passed a bill to plug up loop holes in the drivers' license law which is now ready for the governor's signature. The governor pointed out that as originally approved, the act repealed several sections of the present law relating to penalties for drunken driving. Sen. William C. Handley (R., Hamilton) rushed a bill through the senate to correct these flaws.

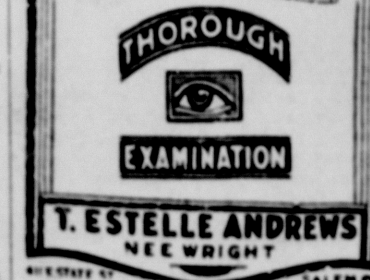

Boards of education would be permitted to issue notes against 50 per cent of the money coming to it to meet current operating expenses under another measure approved. An attempt to eliminate the provision holding the issuance of the notes to 50 per cent was defeated.

Final approval was given by the senate to a bill by Rep. Samuel A. Anderson (D., Licking) appropriating $100,000 for the use of state libraries which have become indebted for books and repairs. It seeks to limit the amount to be given any one library to $1,000.

Three bills which would enable the state to accept the monies to be granted by the federal government under the public works appropriations also were approved. They would permit the state to take advantage of some $40,000,000 that is tentatively allotted to the state for grade crossing elimination and highway construction.

The creation of a state planning board—along the lines of the city planning boards—also was approved.

Western Clubs Take All Honors In First Major Intersectional Games

Postponements Fail To Hide Fact That Power Lies In West

Eastern American Loop Teams Fare Even Worse Than National Members In Wins and Losses

SPTS.—POSTPONEMENTS

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, Associated Press Sports Writer.

RESULTS of the first major league intersectional series of 1935—necessarily inconclusive because of the large number of postponements—indicate the balance of power so far lies west of the Alleghenies.

Eastern "home" clubs of the National league were able to win only 17 games and tie one against 20 victories by the invaders. Eastern American league clubs fared even worse with 13 victories to 18 defeats. All this was in spite of a poor showing by the Reds, who won only two games and lost five, and the admitted weakness of the Browns.

The White Sox, by trimming the Athletics 5 to 0 yesterday behind the three-hit hurling of Ted Lyons, finished with six victories in eight games. The Giants, after battling to an even break with the Dean Brothers of St. Louis before a banner crowd of 41,110 in the windup, won seven games and lost three in addition to tying with Cincinnati.

Two home runs by Hughey Critz off Dizzy Dean and a flock of Cardinal errors gave the Giants a 4 to 1 triumph in yesterday's opener, but Brother Paul later pitched St. Louis to victory by the same score with Jim Collins supplying the winning runs with homers.

The Tigers took their series with the east by a 5-3 margin despite a whitewash at the hands of the Yankees yesterday, 4 to 0. Red Ruffing turned the trick, granting only six hits.

Cleveland, which lost the league lead to Chicago during the home stand, gained an even break in eight games by outlasting Washington 5 to 4, in yesterday's other American league game as rookie Ab Wright knocked in three runs.

Boston, rained out at St. Louis, equalled the Indians' record for the best eastern showing.

The Brooklyn Dodgers, holding grimly to second place in the National league, split a doubleheader with the Cubs. After Chicago had lost a long lead and then batted Dazzy Vance for four runs in the ninth and an 8 to 4 triumph, the Dodgers came back with one brief hard thrust at Charley Root to win 3 to 1. That gave Chicago a 5-3 record in the east and Brooklyn six won and four lost.

The Pirates, who couldn't hit when they first moved east, hammered out a 20-to-5 triumph at Philadelphia in the final with the aid of homers by Gus Suhr, Woody Jensen and Arky Vaughan. It was Vaughan's seventh of the season.

Cincinnati and Boston deferred their game in favor of the opening of the Rockingham park race track.

Grant May Be Drafted For European Davis Cup Play

By BOB CAVAGNARO, Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, May 16.—This should not be read aloud because it is only being whispered by the tennis moguls of the country, but...

If Bryan M. (Bilky) Grant, Jr., the peppery, half-pint Allentown, Pa., makes a good showing in the United States Davis cup series to be played this weekend in Mexico, he is virtually certain to go to England on Uncle Sam's cup squad next month. That is assuming the United States conquers Mexico.

Officials of the United States Lawn Tennis association are pleased with the way Grant performed in the preliminary series against China last weekend and now the diminutive Georgian is "on the spot" insofar as realizing his ambition to go abroad as a member of the Davis cup team is concerned.

Given Consideration

U. S. L. T. A. powers will say only that Grant is being given consideration for an overseas post, but the fact is the American team in all probability will comprise six members, as has been announced, and only five places have been filled.

The personnel thus far is Wilmer S. Allison, Sidney B. Wood, Jr., John Van Ryn, J. Donald Budge and C. Gene Mako. Mako, Budge and Grant are the American contingent in Mexico.

Frankie Parker, the Lawrenceville (N. J.) schoolboy, was intended for the sixth man but he declined the invitation, preferring to confine his outdoor campaigning to his country. The chances are that Grant will fill Parker's place on the team.

"Grant has done well so far and if he makes a good showing against Mexico in the finals of the North American zone competition he certainly will be entitled to consideration for some reward," an official of the national organization said.

Should the U. S. L. T. A. alter its original plan and reduce the international squad to five men, then there is the possibility that "Bilky" will be sent abroad to play in British tournaments and on the continent much in the same fashion the British Lawn Tennis association sent Fred J. Perry on his recently completed world tour.

Grant, who ranks 10th in the national standing, was chosen for the competition in Mexico preliminary because the matches there are being played on clay courts and he is the reigning hard surface champion of the United States.

Eastern Teams Glad To Return From Western Jaunt

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, May 16.—"Home Sweet Home" meant more than a song to the eastern clubs of the American association today as they returned to their home lots.

The eastern teams were glad to get away from the western fields where they were treated so roughly during their current invasion that all but one of them, Indianapolis, reported in second division.

Minneapolis was the roughest of the western hosts. The Millers polished off their home stay yesterday by defeating Louisville, 11 to 7, for their tenth consecutive victory. The winning streak sent the Millers on the road with a half game lead on first place over St. Paul. Milwaukee was third, a game behind the Saints. Kansas City was the west's only representative in the second division.

Two home runs by Bill Norman, who drove in five runs, gave St. Paul a 6 to 5 verdict over Indianapolis.

Milwaukee bombarded four Columbus pitchers with a 14-hit attack, winning 9 to 3, and taking sole possession of third place with a full game margin over Indianapolis.

Toledo and Kansas City were rained out again.

Eastern Teams Glad To Return From Western Jaunt

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, May 16.—"Home Sweet Home" meant more than a song to the eastern clubs of the American association today as they returned to their home lots.

The eastern teams were glad to get away from the western fields where they were treated so roughly during their current invasion that all but one of them, Indianapolis, reported in second division.

Minneapolis was the roughest of the western hosts. The Millers polished off their home stay yesterday by defeating Louisville, 11 to 7, for their tenth consecutive victory. The winning streak sent the Millers on the road with a half game lead on first place over St. Paul. Milwaukee was third, a game behind the Saints. Kansas City was the west's only representative in the second division.

Two home runs by Bill Norman, who drove in five runs, gave St. Paul a 6 to 5 verdict over Indianapolis.

Milwaukee bombarded four Columbus pitchers with a 14-hit attack, winning 9 to 3, and taking sole possession of third place with a full game margin over Indianapolis.

Toledo and Kansas City were rained out again.

The Salem Merchants baseball team, local entry into the Columbiana county hardball league, lost a close game to the Sebring nine at Sebring Wednesday, 11-10. A two-run rally in the eighth inning clinched the game for Sebring, also a county loop team.

The Merchants came through with six runs in the third stanza and four more the next time at bat, but failed to score after that. Willis, on the mound for the locals, struck out 14, while the Sebring hurler, Malley, dusted off only five Willis allowed seven walks, however, against Malley's two.

Salem baseballers will hold practice at 5 p. m. Friday on Depot field and all players interested in trying out with the club are asked to report at that time.

Salem Merchants will face Lisbon on 2:30 p. m. Sunday at Centennial park in a home game.

The Cold Finger Curse

by EDWIN DIAL TORGERSON

CHAPTER XXVIII

Departing from the restaurant, Montigny hailed a taxicab and was transported to the Hotel St. Cyril, in the vicinity of Fifth Avenue and Fifty-Ninth Street. On the way north he expended odd moments in perusal, rather amusedly, of the evening newspaper headlines. They were ablaze with the crime. When he telephoned from the lobby of the St. Cyril, Mr. Elderbank seemed hesitant about inviting him up.

"There's some one here," explained Elderbank indecisively, and then, after a brief wait, "Oh, it's all right. Come on up, Captain."

The visitor to whom Elderbank referred was a saturnine individual whom he introduced to Montigny as Mr. Hovarty.

"Mr. Hovarty is a detective, too," said Elderbank in his soft and weary tone. "Every other person I meet, it seems, is a detective."

"Yes," murmured Montigny, sizing up his man discreetly.

Victor Hovarty's eyes were sunken, crafty and downcast, and he had a habit of glancing up with them quickly and then of dropping his lids almost instantaneously. It gave Montigny the odd feeling that Hovarty found him full of surprises. He disliked the man instinctively, though Hovarty seemed striving hard to make a pleasant impression.

"He represents the insurance company," Mr. Elderbank explained further. "The Security Mutual Assurance, Limited. Naturally, they want to do all they can to help."

"Of course," said Montigny.

Elderbank bade them be seated.

"I was down to headquarters talking things over with Sergeant Darden," observed Detective Hovarty. "He gave me a line on what's been uncovered, but I thought I'd like to have a talk with Mr. Elderbank, too. He tells me you're from Montreal, Captain. Pretty different lay-out you find here, eh? Say what?"

"Quite. Have you any theory as yet, Mr. Hovarty?"

"No, except that a swell bunch of white collar bandits engineered this take. No amateurs, even if they did bungle it. And they'll be laying plans tomorrow or next day for the kick-back. Say what?"

"What is the 'kick-back'?" queried Montigny.

"Kick the ice back—return the jewels. For a consideration—ten per cent, maybe twenty, plus immunity. Say what? That's the way these jewel grifters work it in New York. They hate to fool with fences, and they like to keep a thing like this quiet. They didn't intend to—didn't intend anything fatal in this business, say what? They figured probably Mr. Elderbank, or the insurance company, or both, would rather pay a reward of eighty-five thousand dollars, maybe a hundred and seventy, than to run the risk of losing it all—also, maybe, to avoid a lot of unpleasant publicity. Say what?"

"I see what you mean," said Montigny innocently. "And is this frequently done?"

"Oh, is it! You'd be surprised. The New York jewel thefts you hear of in Canada, Captain, aren't the half of it, dearie, compared to the ones you never hear of. That's just it—the half of it, dearie. There's usually a dearie somewhere—and Popper or Mommer doesn't want a lot of notoriety. Say what?"

Mr. Elderbank coughed gustily over a cigar he was lighting. Montigny was not sure but that the old man's ears were reddening. Elderbank rose suddenly. His soft voice took on a cutting edge as he spoke:

"If any reference is intended, sir, to my unfortunate wife and Mr. Price Merriam, let me tell you this, you prying sneak—that man was employed by me, as a private protector, to do his best to prevent just what has happened."

"Oh, all right, all right, Mr. Elderbank," said Hovarty in oily and deprecatory tones. "I didn't intend for you to take it that way, sir—nothing personal at all, sir. I was just explaining to Captain Montigny how jewel thieves usually work in New York. I didn't mean that what I said had any bearing on this case at all, sir. But I was just saying that if the case hadn't turned out—er—fatal, they would be throwing out fences right now, offering to return all those stones if we'd pay 'em heavy enough reward. And I thought I'd just see how you'd feel about it, sir, in case they did, or—"

"Do you dare to suggest to me—the old man was a brilliant Hindenburg now—that for the return of these cursed, miserable, damnable trinkets, I should consent that immunity be granted to the fiends who killed my wife?"

Hovarty spread his palms with a shrug. "I didn't say I felt that way about it, Mr. Elderbank. But you got to take in consideration how the company feels about it. An eight hundred and fifty thousand dollar loss isn't something to be charged off to P. & L. every other day without a kick. No, sir. And the company's got human stockholders, too—lots of widows and orphans, if you see what I mean—and it means something to them if their dividends get saved in two, or maybe the company wrecked."

"I don't give a darn, sir," choked Elderbank. "Whether your company is wrecked or not. If you came here to talk to me about any such underhanded criminal negotiations with thieves and murderers, I'll hand you over to the police."

"Oh, all right," Hovarty rose and got his hat. His tone was venomous now. "But let me tell you something while you're high-hatting me, you two-faced old slob. I know all about this dizzy game you've got up in Montreal. Say what? And all this upstage chatter about what a perfectly virtuous gink you are might sink in with this visiting fireman, but it don't get to first base with me. Say what!"

Elderbank seemed taken aback.

"And what's more," hissed Hovarty, pausing at the door, "you don't want to get nasty again with me, see? If you do, I'll spill what I know."

Elderbank followed him into the corridor, waving Montigny back when the latter moved to follow.

"I'll handle him," said Elderbank nervously, and closed the door carefully behind him.

Montigny shrugged his shoulders, pursed his lips. He walked to the window, gazed down mustily upon the brilliant, ceaseless activity of the acre where Sherman on his tireless horse frowned upon the world's smartest.

"Not a crime passionel," muttered Montigny. "Surely not!"

Elderbank presently returned, apparently much calmer, though he said with no slight emphasis: "I told him a thing or two! We won't hear any more from him, the rat! Why this town is astonishing, Captain—it's a nest of blackmailers, that's all it is!"

"Did he try to blackmail you, sir?"

"No, and he had better not! I'll go to the district attorney with this, that's what I'll do. Why, I believe the scoundrel actually knows who committed this crime—I believe he knows where the jewels are!"

Montigny accepted a proffered cigar. "I think not, sir," he replied. "I think perhaps he is angling for a private reward—in case he is placed in a position to collect it. I am familiar with the 'kick-back,' as he calls it; I pretended ignorance largely for his benefit. The insurance company no doubt will offer a substantial reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of these people—but what they are interested in primarily is the return of the stones. Hovarty, I think, would like to have you double the reward, which would offer a more inviting prospect to the thieves. But the man lacks delicacy—he approached you crudely."

"I shall consent to no 'immunity' for the dogs, if the jewels are never returned," declared Elderbank vehemently.

Montigny reported in detail upon the events of the afternoon, and his auditor was intensely interested.

"Splendid, Montigny. If any living man can get to the bottom of this, I believe you can. But it is a terrible tangle, isn't it?"

Montigny shook his head. "Not so tangled, Mr. Elderbank, as it might be. Our circle of suspects is limited to those who were in fairly close touch with Mrs. Elderbank—who had access to information about her private telephone, who knew of the plans for her entertainment last night, who planned the crime carefully for a specific time."

"This man Thurber they have in jail—do you think he is guilty, Captain?"

"It is wholly possible, Mr. Elderbank. I have long since ceased, in my business, to be surprised at anything. But I do not, as a rule, associate crime with newspaper men. They know too much about it—they learn too much in their contacts with the police. They know too well that, eventually, if not at once, the criminal pays. And I do not think that a man who would be shrewd enough to plot a crime of this character would be as enough to hide part of the loot in his rooms, in an obvious place where it would inevitably be found."

The old man nodded wearily. "Perhaps you are right, Captain. I must leave it with you. I am utterly spent."

"You are returning to Montreal tomorrow?"

"Yes, I believe the police are through with—all the unhappy details."

The autopsy developed nothing new, I understand."

"Nothing—merely the main facts, which you already know."

Montigny bade him good-bye, promising to advise him promptly of any progress that might be made in the investigation. Elderbank shook hands warmly.

"It is good to know that you are to be here, Captain, when such men as this scamp Hovarty who call themselves 'detectives' are at large. And I am going to leave you something to think about—something suggested by Hovarty. Let the insurance people offer any reward they wish for the recovery of the property; I don't care if it is never returned—it was the cause of my poor wife's death. But I am going to pay a reward to the man who brings to brook the scoundrels who killed my wife—and the reward is eighty-five thousand dollars. I hope you collect it!"

Montigny made his way back to Waverly Place with this astonishing declaration ringing repetitively in his ears.

Eighty-five thousand dollars! Sacred blum! Nom du nom du pom! What would his good wife Marie, the portly and thrifty Madame Montigny—what would little Jean-Baptiste say—if he came back from New York the possessor of such a mighty fortune!

Montigny was a poor man. He had never hoped for wealth. He adhered to the homely philosophy that no man, however wealthy, could sleep in more than one bed at night, or eat, comfortably, more than three meals a day. If he clothed and sheltered his family, educated his boy, went through life in reasonable peace and contentment, a bit accumulating in the bank, his debts all paid, all necessities and a few extra comforts provided, and the perennial fascination of his daily work to insure him against boredom—what more could any man ask?

He compared his lot, instinctively, with the miseries of wealth—the blight of things coveted, the tyranny of things possessed, the waste and ruin of redundancy that had brought Violet Elderbank to her death, the old man to remorseful grief and shame.

Stamps Rise With Earhart

After 14 hours in an airplane, a stamp with a face value of 20 cents became worth $250 to philatelists who are paying that for any of the few "covers" carried by Amelia Earhart Putnam on her nonstop flight from Mexico City to New York. Here's one she carried addressed to herself.

Insurance adjuster, has traveled a distance equal to 20 trips nearly a half million miles by rail, around the world at the equator.

BARTLEY, Neb.—Bandits who looted the State bank of Bartley were so thorough that they almost were unable to escape with their loot. Included in the $3,000 total was $1,200 in silver coins and $65 in pennies, totaling to such a load that the bandit who attempted to carry it as he fled, had to be supported by a companion.

OGDEN, Utah.—Ignoring the scriptural command to refrain from work on the Sabbath day, a Rhode Island Red hen laid the largest egg ever found at the Horace Brown ranch, in Birch Creek. Weighing 3 ounces, the egg measures eight and one-half inches by seven inches.
